Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it has effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.

ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan. 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there, I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.
Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.
Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Southbury Falls, Vermont.

Did the Comet Give the Sun a Black Eye?

Happening to look at the sun one day last week through a pair of those very dark spectacles which are used in the manipulation of the electric light, the reporter saw a distinct black speck on its disk.

"That must be a very large sun spot," he thought, and immediately betook himself to the observatory of his friend the astronomer.

"Yes," said the astronomer, "that's a truly remarkable spot. It's the black eye that the great comet gave the ruler of the solar system! At least there is a theory which says so, and, as the sun has shown black eyes before after great comets have been engaged with him at close quarters, perhaps the theory is not so very far out of the way."

"Do you mean that the comet hit the sun?"

"No, not exactly that, for if it had it would have been the end of the comet. But it undoubtedly passed through the atmosphere of the sun, and if it had gone much closer would have touched what appears to us as the sun's actual surface. You know that one of the discoveries of recent years is that meteors follow in the tracks of comets. The tremendous spot that adorned the sun's face after the perihelion of the comet of 1843 has been ascribed to the fall into the sun of a huge meteor following the comet, and the present spot, or rather spots—for there are several which made their appearance about the time of the perihelion of our great comet—may have had a similar origin. There is another view that can be taken of it. It has been shown that a comet going very close to the sun is liable to be torn to pieces by the divergent forces operating on it. The present comet, you know, has a divided nucleus; in fact, it has probably thrown off several cometary masses of considerable magnitude, and the work of disintegration appears to be still going on. Now, it may have parted with a portion of its mass when it was nearest the sun, and the fall of this may have produced the spots. There is yet another way of looking at it which does not involve the fall of anything upon the sun, and that is this; the exceedingly close approach of the comet may by itself have caused the spots. It is true no comet has ever shown that it possessed mass enough to effect by its attraction the motion of any planet near which it passed, but the gaseous surface of the sun is in a condition far different from that of the solid globes which revolve around it. At any rate, the greater spot which you now see on the face of the sun, and some of the smaller ones too, undoubtedly made their appearance when the comet was at its perihelion and moreover, they appeared on that side of the sun which was then turned toward the comet.

"So you see there is really some reason for saying that the comet gave the sun a black eye. In return for this pugilistic salute, however, if all the observations are to be trusted, the King of Day reduced the comet's head to fragments."—N. Y. Sun.

—A singular fatality seems to have compassed the lives of a part of Richard Bailey's family of ten children, who were born and have generally lived at Townshend, Vt. Henry, aged ninety-three, dropped dead in his own yard at that place a few days ago; Hubbard, seventy-nine, dropped dead in Montgomery, Dana, seventy-four, fell from a load of corn and broke his back; Abigail, seventy-two, fell from a load of corn at Saratoga and broke his neck; and Mrs. Polly Bailey Franklin was taken suddenly ill and died before the doctor could be summoned.

Sir Garnet Wolseley's Coolness on the Battlefield.

All accounts are agreed as to Sir Garnet's demeanor both before and after the fight. His coolness and self-reliance were extraordinary. On the morning before the battle, when he took all the Generals and their respective staffs to reconnoiter the enemy's lines he dismounted within a couple miles of Tel-el-Kebir, and gathering the others around him, explained exactly what he meant to do. With a short stick he pointed to the intrenchments as he might to a blackboard in a lecture-room, and quietly indicated in turns the position of each part of the attacking force. He had the whole thing off by heart, knew and explained in exact detail what every regiment had to do. While they were thus occupied, protected only by a small cavalry escort, the enemy set out a party to observe them, but made no further demonstration. Wolseley's "lecture" finished, they all remounted and rode back to camp.

After the battle was practically won, Sir Garnet came to the bridge across the canal communicating the right with the left attack, and getting off his horse, quietly began to write his telegram announcing the victory on a scrap of paper handed to him by one of his staff. Here, too, he received the reports from the various staff officers of divisions and brigades, asking more particularly as to casualties. "Are you quite sure?" he always said. "Don't give me wrong figures. Don't mention any officer's name unless you are quite positive he is hit." All this time he was giving orders right and left, now to one staff officer, now to another, and through it all, confusing and embarrassing as the situation might well have been, was perfectly quiet and unconcerned.—London World.

Dogs in Partnership.

A curious story of canine sagacity is reported in the Cologne journals. The owner of a number of rabbits near Barmen found that for six successive nights one of his rabbits was stolen from the house which he had made for them out of a wooden case which stood a few inches above the ground. At the top of it an opening had been made about the width of two hands, which was closed at night by a board on which heavy stones were laid. The house having thus been secured, and as it was found each morning that only one rabbit had been stolen, and that all the rest were quite uninjured, it was considered impossible for a weasel to have effected the theft. It was, therefore, supposed that human hands had been at work. The owner consequently first made the opening more secure by nailing down one side of the board, and covering it with grass and stones, and then hid himself in order to watch for the thief. At one o'clock in the morning he heard a noise at the rabbit-hole, and was not a little astonished to see two dogs instead of a man on the top of it. One was a large dog of the neighborhood, well known to him, a cross between a St. Bernard and a large woolly collie, feared by all other dogs; the second was a stranger, a small terrier, just slender enough to get through the hole in the rabbit-house. The big dog, who, on other occasions, never noticed his smaller comrades, had evidently come to an understanding with his little friend about the nocturnal rendezvous. The big dog scratched away all the grass and the stones, dragged up the board, and let the terrier jump through the hole. The latter returned in a few minutes with a rabbit in his mouth, which he presented to his great friend, and both proceeded to devour their supper undisturbed.

THERE is little difference in morality or integrity between the thieving carpet baggers who led the colored people of the South in the days of "good stealing" and the southern desperados who are put forward now by the Republican administration, and backed by it to lead them. AYER'S PILLS.

A large proportion of the diseases which cause human suffering result from derangement of the stomach, bowels, and liver. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon these organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and pleasant remedy. The extensive use of these PILLS by eminent physicians in regular practice, shows unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

These PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from calomel or any other injurious ingredient.

A Sufferer from Headache writes:

"AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and are my constant companion. I have been a severe sufferer from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest pills I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so when occasion offers."

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro.,

Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable. J. T. HAYES."

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

THE REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Forty Persons Killed by an Explosion in Holland.

AMSTERDAM, January 19.—A frightful disaster happened to-day at Muiden, a fortified town eight miles from here. The gunpowder factory exploded with terrific force shattering houses in the village, tearing roofs off and throwing blazing materials in all directions. Nearly all the houses in Muiden are unroofed and shattered, while many of the dwellings in adjoining villages are damaged considerably. Over forty persons have perished.

The scenes of the disaster is one of horror and desolation. Muiden does not contain two thousand inhabitants, and these are mostly of the working classes. Those who have lost their lives at the factory had relatives through the little town, and the frantic cries and lamentations of the people at the scene of the explosion are heartrending.

Terrific Gas Explosion.

A DESPATCH to the Courier-Journal from Frankfort, says:

The general impression here is that the troops ought to be called into service to protect Neal and Craft, if for nothing else than to provide against an emergency in the case of treachery on the part of the Boyd County mob. As remarked by a gentleman to-day, the State can not afford to suffer these men to be hanged by the mob now after the Ashland experience and the great expense attending the trial, and though ten, fifteen or a hundred men in Boyd County should give their word of honor to Judge Brown not to violate the law, still that is no guarantee for him to act upon, where there are thousands in the county who will not consider themselves bound by any such obligation. If no troops are sent, it is believed that the temper of the mob element is such that all the law-abiding citizens of Carter County summoned in a posse can not prevent the lynching of the prisoners.

COUNTY POINTS.

STONE LICK.

The denizens of Orangeburg are very anxious to know who "Reporter," is from Stone Lick. Don't say a word, they think it is Mr. Wallingford. He was there the other day and they were about to mob him. We'll keep out of the way and still keep you posted.

The happiest man in Orangeburg, is our enterprising merchant, Mr. Bilney. He says business is brisk and having a clear conscience he loves everybody and don't hate the devil much.

The wife of Robert Morton, colored, is very low with inflammatory rheumatism. Uncle Bob was owned by Mr. Throckmorton of Bourbon county, and is very much respected by his neighbors.

A young gentleman of our acquaintance was introduced by his father, to a young lady, as was supposed, after talking to her a couple of hours, flattering her for her beauty, complimenting her for her intelligence, and trying to bring her to the point to ask permission to visit her. A gentleman coming up, our young friend was introduced to my husband. Young gentleman says next time the old man picks out a wife for him he wants him to know she is not some other man's wife. We think that's right.

A wedding is talked of soon, the lady a widow who is upwards of forty and the boy only twenty. We think the talk is not well founded. She is only taking care of the young gentleman, and teaching him how to court the young ladies when he gets old enough.

The meanest of all creation is the unthankful man. The unthankful man is one who you take into your house, warm at your fire, feed at your table, clothe with your money, then he turns in and sues you at the law to make you pay him for staying while you are supplying his necessities.

Mr. Ambrose Dixon, one of our enterprising farmers has sold his crop of tobacco for eleven cents per pound all round. Good for Mr. Dixon.

Mr. Jack Wason has his old crop of tobacco on hand yet. Uncle Jack you have been a very fortunate man, but you've caught this time. He said however, that he reckons it is well enough, that if he had sold it all the money as well as tobacco would have been gone, and the fun of spending the money is yet to come.

Several crops of tobacco have been sold in this neighborhood. We all want to sell.

Mr. Lewis Bullock did not keep his promise Wednesday night. Come, Lewis and give an account of yourself, the ladies were disappointed.

Why are there no more weddings? We have a great many young men and some of them on the bachelor list, and lots of young ladies old enough, large enough, handsome enough and good enough for any man to take care of. Boys, what's the matter. If you'll make the match I will insure you will find preachers enough to marry you.

Mystery, a woman when you flatter and prize the ladies, all is as calm and serene as heaven, pointing at home when you flatter and praise your wife. It is Jones do this, Jones do that, or Jones how awkward you are. Well a change is needful says Jones.

If the young ladies who were riding the speckled pony, had have looked over the fence they wouldn't have sung, "Why he was Called Macedonia," so loud, last week.

Ayer's Hair Vigor improves the beauty of the hair and promotes its growth. It imparts an attractive appearance, a delightful and lasting perfume. While it stimulates the roots, cleanses the scalp, and adds elegance to luxuriance, its effects are enduring; and thus it proves itself to be the best and cheapest article for toilet use.

Wild geese are greatly damaging the grain in the San Joaquin Valley. A man killed sixteen at one shot in Stanislaus county the other day. It is not safe to eat them on account of the quantity of poison set out for them by the farmers.

Prince Napoleon, who stand as pretender to the fallen throne of the late Emperor of France was arrested in Paris as the author of a manifesto against the republic. In this manifesto the Prince dwells on the impotence and incapacity of the present government; but it seems, nevertheless, to be a fact that the republican government had all the potency and capacity required to put the impotent and incapable Prince under arrest.

To cure warts on cows' bags, Mr. H. G. Abbott, of Maine, recommends to saturate them three times a week with kerosene oil, and in a short time they will all be gone, leaving the skin smooth and free from soreness.

A Bond of Acquaintance.

A jolly crowd of commercial travelers sat in the reading-room of a Chicago hotel, cracking jokes and telling "ghost" stories, when in came a slab-sided, gawky Hoosier, who, thinking himself unobserved, quietly sat down and took up all the fun. One of the boys, without calling anybody's attention to the count man, casually remarked, as he pointed to a chum who was reading a paper:

"I shouldn't think Jim Bennett would sit there and pore over that old sheet. Why, if I was as rich as he I'd raise the roof right off this house."

The countryman's eyes fairly bulged out with wonder when he heard this allusion to the editor of such a big paper, and he slowly gathered himself up and shuffled toward the chair occupied by the alleged Bennett. Gazing at him anxiously for a moment, he said, in an altering voice: "Are you Mr. Bennett, the editor of the New York Herald?"

The drummer looked up in amazement; but, catching the wink from the rest of the boys, he quietly replied:

"That's what people say."

"Gosh!" exclaimed the Hoosier.

"Well, my lad," he magnificently said the pseudo editor, "what can I do for you?"

"Why, sir," murmured the almost paralyzed youth, "why, sir, my brother takes the Herald. Do you know him?"

The supposed Bennett fainted, and the rest of the crowd went into hysterics, while the Hoosier didn't stop walking until he struck the State line.—Brooks's Travelers Magazine.
